ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A CPU checks a relation between the terminal type information which is stored in a transmission destination terminal type of an information storing

5      unit in association with a mail address designated as a transmission destination of the image transmission when this image transmission is designated, namely, a terminal type of a transmission destination, and a transmission system of which usage is designated.  The 10     CPU informs the confirmation result of the system designation on the basis of the class information which is stored in an information storing unit in association with a mail address, which is designated as a transmission destination.